Ryan Wood, a native of Australia, began riding and competing at just eight years of age. Over the years, Ryan's love of horses quickly grew, and before long he purchased his first horse, a Thoroughbred/Stock Horse through a local newspaper for just $1,500.00 AUD. Together, Ryan and this very special horse, known as Countdown, would develop from Pony Club, through the levels of the eventing world, and ultimately competed at the 5* level for the first time when both were 19 years old.

Following his success with Countdown, Ryan also competed at eventing's top level with several other horses he brought up through the levels in Australia. Despite being very young, he achieved top placings at numerous events, among them the Adelaide CCI4*-L, Sydney CCI4*-L and the Warwick World Cup CCI4*-S.

After completing school in Australia, Ryan furthered his riding knowledge, spending a year working under the instruction of Eventing champion Guy Wallace while also gaining valuable experience starting youngsters and galloping racehorses. Always eager to grow and develop as a rider, Ryan made a number of trips during his youth to train and ride in Germany with Olympic Dressage trainer Norbert Van Laak, and with champion Show Jumpers Ludger Beerbaum and Ernst Hofschroer. In 2008, after substantial success in his home country, Ryan moved his business, Woodstock Eventing, to the United States. Since that time, Ryan has had many notable achievements on a variety of horses, quickly proving he could ride alongside some of the top horses and riders in the United States. Upon moving in 2008, Ryan worked for Eventing legend Bruce Davidson before making a home for himself at fellow Australian native Phillip Dutton's True Prospect Farm in Unionville, PA. After four years working for Phillip, Ryan now runs his own business out of True Prospect Farm and continues to train with Phillip.

In addition to Ryan's passion for riding, he enjoys seeing others succeed through coaching lessons and clinic. He takes pride in developing horses and being a part of their journey, knowing that each horse has something unique to teach us.

Please join us in welcoming Ryan Wood to CS&W Farms, I hope you will take this opportunity to ride with a truly talented instructor who happens to be a very nice guy!
